

Tips for determining ring size:

- Measure the circumference of your finger in a warm temperature at the end of the day.
- If your knuckle is considerably thicker than your finger, used method B below, but measure the circumference of the finger at the palm, where the ring is worn, and the circumference of the knuckle, and then choose the intermediate size.

Tips for buying rings for other people:

- Ask the recipient's friends about his or her ring size.
- Borrow a ring from the recipient and use method A below (be sure to borrow a ring that fits the finger where the ring will be worn – the ring finger, the middle finger, etc.).

Other tips and information:

- When determining ring sizes, it is preferable to go a size up for a more comfortable fit, particularly with thicker pieces.
- Our ring sizes match Slovenian standards.
- The average size for a woman's ring is around 52. The average size for a man's ring is around 62.
- The ring sizes for your writing hand are about half a size larger than your other hand.

First, print this document. Check the image size before printing – the page should be printed in actual size (1:1), not modified to fit the printer.

METHOD A

Measure a ring that fits you or the person that you are choosing the ring for. Make sure that the circle on the page matches the inner circumference of the ring. If you are between two sizes, choose the larger.

METHOD B

Measure your finger and compare it with the scale below:

1. Take a piece of non-stretch string around 15 cm long.
2. Wrap the string around your finger at the palm, but not too tightly.
3. Use a pen to mark the spot where the string meets around your finger.
4. Compare the length of the string with the lines in the scale below to find your ring size. If you are between two sizes, choose the larger.
